Office & Professional

Considered. Consultative. Correct.

Finding the ideal employee can be complicated. People with the right values and ability are often difficult to come by. Yet the rewards are very evident. The right recruit can bring new skills and drive a business forward.

At Wild Recruitment we carefully consider the people we locate. Our permanent and temporary candidates are fully assessed (via video and face to face) by highly experienced Consultants. And because we work in close partnership with our clients, we are able to match a very detailed brief. Specialist knowledge is allied with salary benchmarking, skills testing and a 360 degree review system. Nothing is left to chance. In truth the perfect worker will always be hard to find but, through our thoughtful and consultative recruitment, we achieve unparalleled levels of success.

How do we manage this? Our experience tells us that meeting you and gaining a full understanding of your requirement is essential. We then utilise video shortlisting as well as face to face interviewing to fully assess candidates. This means we can provide high quality individuals who match your precise profile. Of course our service does not stop there. We keep in close contact to ensure that each permanent and temporary recruit exceeds your expectations. Our aim is to be judged on performance. Engineering & Technical

Recruiting with precision

The UK's skills shortage has been mentioned many times before. It's broad based and there is a massive shortfall of engineering professionals and graduates. Finding people is a challenge. Locating people who suit your culture, values and exact requirements is a necessity.

At Wild Recruitment we match candidates to your needs with precision. Our specialist Consultants make a point of understanding you and how your brand can stand out. We then formulate a realistic strategy and use our resourcing and networking skills to create a high quality shortlist. Of course we delve far beyond the basics of each CV. Experience tells us that candidates must have the knowledge and attitude to fit your particular project.

As new technologies emerge competition for staff is only likely to increase. For some this means qualifications are enough. Our approach is different. We believe we can find precisely the right contract and permanent staff to help your business thrive.

Industrial

It's in the detail

Industrial recruitment can be hard to manage. Order books fluctuate and sometimes it pays to expect the unexpected. This means sensible planning and flexibility are key factors for a recruitment business. Events may often be unpredictable but the right staffing partner remains critical in a changing world.

Wild Recruitment's success lies in the detail. Detail when we initially visit and gain a comprehensive brief. Detail when we source, interview and rigorously vet candidates. In fact detail throughout our relationship and from the very first assignment. When we supply staff we repeatedly gain feedback, we measure our performance and we work with you to plan ahead. Plus we make sure we are available 24/7 in case unexpected requirements do occur. In short we leave nothing to chance. We've learnt that the small things add up and can set our service apart.

Catering & Hospitality

Catering to your needs

It's an important event. Your customers want to feel special. So of course do you. At Wild Recruitment we seek service excellence and make a fine point of understanding your needs.

Understanding comes from experience and being prepared to listen. Results come from passing this understanding to the catering and hospitality staff we recruit. Every candidate is carefully interviewed, vetted, skills tested and briefed. Every candidate learns our ethos and is treated with respect. The outcome is high quality staff who stand out through their attitude, presentation and attention to detail. The end result is satisfied, and hopefully delighted, customers and service that never fails to impress.
